Milan Forum, 14th March 2008

Lanxess is a leading chemicals group with production sites and agencies all over the world: a global player in the fields of chemicals, plastics and rubber and it is listed as the fourth largest German Chemistry Corporation in the Frankfurt Stock Exchange.

Lanxess is a global player with strong roots reaching as far back as 1863, the year Bayer was founded. Combining a long tradition with the dynamism of a young organization, Lanxess grew from a strategic realignment of the Bayer Group's chemical and plastics businesses at the beginning of 2005.
